The NexTec Team

“Our business and industry is unique, and while we interviewed solution providers that offered solutions specific to our industry, NexTec was the only provider that made sure they understood how we operated and would do the research to find the answer to our questions.”

Shaun McCann, Assistant Controller

Trusted

“We put NexTec through the ringer, requiring them to successfully deliver a proof of concept. The NexTec Group was the only solution provider to pass all the tests and they have gone on to deliver exactly what they promised.”

Katerine Paulea, Corporate Controller, DYONYX, L.P.

Many organizations talk about having a methodology to successfully implement business solutions, but most are simply based on following predetermined steps in a ‘canned’ process. NexTec recognizes that implementation success is based on achieving goals, and by utilizing both industry standard project management concepts and specialized project management applications, we have become a leader in this area. While individual steps of an implementation are important, NexTec places an even stronger focus on overall goal achievement. NexTec successfully meets these goals and implementation objectives through allocation of responsibilities; handling change management; and, facilitating continuous communication throughout an implementation.

Implementation Approach

Skilled

“We’ve worked with NexTec for over 10 years; heavily relying on them to be our technology sounding board and a resource to develop a strategic growth plan for the future. Any changes NexTec has made to our business and our process has improved it for the better, every single time.”

Jeremy Adkins-Hill, MIS Manager, John Zidian Group, Inc.

In an increasingly complex business world, it’s critical to have trusted resources, both in house and as partners. Our consultants learn your business and once your initial project is complete, continue to be a point of contact throughout our business relationship. Our application and development teams are trained across multiple products to ensure that when addressing customer issues, solutions are developed with the business process, not an application, in mind. The depth of our development group means that our solutions can be as specific to your business workflow as required.

Consulting and Development

“Hands down — this system is 100 times better than our old way of doing business. It’s highly scalable, yet able to be managed by a smaller staff.”

Brady Aase, CFO, Pacific Dental Services
